Hiring Manager
EchoPark Automotive — Orlando
Sonic Automotive

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Automotive Finance Manager position at your new Orlando store. I am in Miami today, and I want to be direct about the move: my son, daughter-in-law, and granddaughter are in the Orlando area, and relocating there is something I want for my own reasons. This is not a candidate who will be looking to come back to South Florida in six months.

You call this job Finance Coach. That is the part of it I would point to first. For twenty-eight years at Bill Seidle's Nissan I have run the finance office for a fifteen-person sales floor, and the floor has been as much of my job as the desk — training salespeople on how to structure a deal, what has to be disclosed, and how to bring a guest into finance without losing the guest or the gross. Forecasting with them, sitting in sales meetings, and answering for the department's numbers is work I have done every month for most of my career.

What else I would bring:

- Thirty years of lender relationships across the full credit spectrum. Banks, captives, and credit unions, built over decades. On a high-volume used-vehicle floor that network is the difference between a delivery and a guest who leaves.
- Numbers a manufacturer graded, not numbers I am claiming. Six-time Nissan Award of Excellence winner, and Platinum level in Nissan Security Plus products every year since 2005. Different brand, different model — but the performance behind those awards is what I would bring to your F&I office.
- Paperwork that holds up. Truth in Lending, the Fair Credit Reporting Act and the Red Flags Rule, OFAC — thousands of funded deals, clean and audit-ready. A new store cannot afford to build that habit later.
- Fully bilingual, English and Spanish. Most of my guests over three decades have been served in one or the other. In the Orlando market that is not a footnote.
- Ready on day one. CDK, DealerTrack, and Reynolds & Reynolds, daily. Available for evenings, weekends, and holidays.

A store opening in December needs a finance office that works in January, not one still finding its footing in March. I have spent thirty years learning what makes that office fast, clean, and profitable, and I would like to help you stand this one up. I would welcome the chance to go through my numbers with you.

Sincerely,

Santos Echevarria
